OCEAN HEROES.

Everybody that reads newspapers is now familiar with the loss of the Elbe—that awful marine tragedy of ten days ago in which 316 lives were lost and only 20 saved. Of the latter 5 were second-cabin passengers and 15 were officers or sailors of the ship. The lost included 17 cabin, 28 intermediate and 137 steerage passengers, with 20 officers and seamen and 114 others whose rank is not mentioned. The captain and the whole watch on deck at the time of the disaster went down with the ship.

The lost steamer Elbe, belonged to the North German Lloyd, and was bound from Bremen to New York, via Southampton, when, on the morning of Jan. 30, she was run into by the Scotch steamer Craithie fifty miles off Lowestoft, England. She sank in twenty minutes. No blame is ascribed to Captain Von Goessel, who died as became a seaman, at his post, making no effort to save himself, but directing all his energy towards preserving the lives of his passengers.

His heroic—even sublime—conduct calls to mind the stoical bravery and heroism of the commanders of ocean steamships, whose first duty by instinct is to the safety of those in their keeping rather than to themselves.

While only five passengers from the Elbe were saved the other fifteen among the rescued being members of the crew, it is a note-worthy fact that the Captain is not among the latter. The dispatches which tell of this greatest ocean horror of the decade say that Von Goessel was cool and calm to the last.

He gave orders to the crew in the moment of peril to save the passengers. But the time was so brief and excitement so great these orders were not followed. It was with all but Von Goessel a case of every man for himself. He deliberately followed in the tradition of the sea by going down with his ship rather than join in the general scramble for a place in one of the boats.

Von Goessel's heroic death heralds him as a traditional ocean hero for whom death had no terrors.

The melancholy fate of this brave commander and the courage he displayed calls to mind the wrecking of a big British steamer off the Cape of Good Hope a number of years ago. On board were many passengers, among them women and children. A detachment of British troops were also on the ship.

When the fate of the vessel was sealed it was discovered that there were not enough boats to accommodate all. A panic or scramble for places in the boats would undoubtedly have resulted in several of them being capsized and the weaker persons being left to their fate, while only the stronger would have reached land.

The captain knew this and ordered the boats lowered and filled with the women, children and old men.

The troops were marched on deck, and this command was carried out at the point of the soldiers' guns, orders having been given to fire on any person other than those mentioned who might attempt to get into the boats.

Perfect discipline prevailed. The boats were filled with the precious human freight and pulled off from the sinking ship just as it went down.

The last look at the doomed craft presented a spectacle unequalled in the annals of history for true self-sacrifice. The brave captain, his crew, the soldiers and the male passengers who were unable to find accommodation in the boats stood on deck, the troops drawn up in line of battle. In another instant the ship went to the bottom and old ocean's cruel waves rolled over the most heroic commander of modern times.

When the Fifty-third Congress expires, by unanimous consent of the American people, perhaps no member will be regretted less than Breckinridge of Kentucky, who did not act for the savor of his reputation by a row on the floor of the House last week.

GLEANINGS.

Items of Interest Clipped from our State Exchanges.

Smithfield Herald: In 1887 the Legislature paid Rev. Dr. Solomon Pool, of this place, who was president of the University just after the war, four thousand dollars due as salary. Yesterday a resolution was introduced to pay him the interest on the amount from the time it was due till it was paid.

Southport Leader: Word is brought here of the death of Willie Leonard, son of Sam B. Leonard, of Shallotte, in this county. The cause of the young man's death was typhoid fever. Willie was 19 years old, and a young man of good character and generally liked. He was a member of the Methodist church.

Rockingham Rocket: Aaron Wright, colored, who shot and killed Sandy Monroe, colored, at Laurinburg, last week, surrendered himself to the officers last Friday, and was brought here and placed in jail Saturday. He claims that the killing was done in self-defense. The case will probably come up for trial at the next term of the Superior court.

Asheville Citizen: There was a wedding in the Land of Flowers today in which Asheville people have an interest. It was the marriage of J. D. Robertson, of this city, and Mrs. S. L. Hull, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., which occurred at the Palmetto house, Davidson, Fla., the winter home of the bride. Only a few friends were present at the marriage.

Winston Sentinel: Mr. Frank Hoge made a fine record with his exhibit at the big poultry show in New York. He says that he was awarded first premiums on a hen and pullet, and third and fourth prizes on Cockerels. He received four prizes on four birds (two of them being first premiums) against the competition of breeders all over the United States.

Charlotte Observer: The Catholic Mirror was reflected here yesterday in the person of Mr. John R. Crookwell, who, of course, hails from Baltimore, as the Mirror is published in that Catholic city. Mr. Crookwell is a Virginian, but this is his first trip beyond Greensboro since the war. His wife was educated in Greensboro, and he naturally feels an interest in the "City of Fowers," although Mr. Crookwell recalls the fact that when he was in Greensboro during the war a heavy snow storm was prevailing, and when he struck there yesterday he found the same state of affairs, atmospherically. Mr. Crookwell was in Stonewall Jackson's brigade, and he was greatly interested and delighted to know that Mrs. Jackson was living in Charlotte. He called on her before leaving the city.

Wilmington Review: Mr. Dallas M. Fennell, youngest son of the late Sheriff Owen Fennell, died at his residence in this city at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, after a long and lingering illness. For years past he has resided here, first as a bookkeeper for Mr. D. L. Gore, and afterwards with Messrs. Brown & Roddick. He was about 48 years of age and a good man and a true one in every relation of life. The funeral services took place this afternoon from the residence on Seventh, between Chestnut and Mulberry, and the interment was in Oakdale. He was the father of Mr. Henry Fennell, at the C. F. & Y. V. depot, brother to Mr. Owen Fennell, city clerk and treasurer, and uncle to Mr. H. L. Fennell. Mr. Fennell was a Mason, an Odd Fellow and a Knight of Pythias and his remains were followed to the grave and buried with the honors of these three orders.

IT SHOULD BE IN EVERY HOUSE
J. B. Wilson, 371 Clay St. Sharpshooter Pa., says he will not be without Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds, that it cured his wife who was threatened with Pneumonia after an attack of "La Grippe," when various other remedies and several physicians had done her no good. Robert Barber, of Cookport, Pa., claims Dr. King's New Discovery has done him more good than any other medicine he ever used for Lung Trouble. Nothing like it. Try it. Free Trial Bottles at J. H. Hill & Son's Drug Store. Large bottles, 50c. and $1.00.

CASTORIA is truly a marvelous thing for children. Doctors prescribe it, medical journals recommend it and more than a million mothers are using it in place of pectoral, Bateman's Drops, so-called scurvy spruce and other patent and quack remedies. Castoria is the quickest thing to regulate the stomach and bowels and gives healthy sleep the world has ever seen. It is pleasant to the taste and absolutely harmless. It relieves constipation, quiets pain, cures diarrhea and wind colic, allays feverishness, destroys worms, and prevents convulsions, whooping cough, and gives it refreshing and natural sleep. Castoria is the child's friend, the mother's friend. Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk. Don't allow any one to tell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."

It Pays to buy Good Shoes.

WE sell all our shoes with a guarantee that they are good, and will give good service, if they are worn and treated as they should be. A light, thin bottom shoe should not be expected to give the same wear that a heavy shoe will. So do not purchase a real light shoe when a heavy one should be worn, and then complain if it doesn't stand. You run no risk in buying shoes from us, as we will gladly make good any shoes that are not as represented. We have a big stock of shoes and some special inducements. So it might pay you to see us before you buy.
